

OFFICE OF RESEARCH AND REPORTS

ECONOMIC SERVICES DIVISION

MISSION

The Economic Services Division is responsible for intelligence research, reporting and analysis in the fields of transportation, communications, trade and finance, labor and manpower, electric power, economic organizations and programs, and construction, on a worldwide basis, but with particular emphasis on the U.S.S.R. and other communist countries. In addition to preparing its own studies, it is also responsible for the reviewing and coordination of work done by all U.S. government agencies in this field, and for the issuing of requirements for the collection by these agencies of data needed or for the preparation of such additional reports as may be desired. It shall establish and maintain the necessary committees for such purposes.

Within C.I.A., the Division is responsible for advising other Divisions on matters falling in the fields listed above, and for correcting and coordinating the individual conclusions of such Divisions where they relate to such matters.

Under the general direction of the Assistant Director, Office of Research and Reports, the Division shall maintain appropriate liaison with similar groups in other governments with a view to improving and harmonizing work in these fields, and shall also make such non-governmental contacts as are deemed advisable, and shall perform such special functions as may from time to time be assigned.
